

THE FUTURE OF VENICE

AND ITS LAGOON IN THE CONTEXT OF GLOBAL CHANGE

International Conference
13-15 November 2011 - Venice (Italy)

Open to the public on Sunday

At the heart of the unique World Heritage site of Venice and its Lagoon, world renowned experts have been called together to contribute to a shared vision for its future. Discussions and debates on how to address the scientific, environmental, cultural and socio-economic challenges the site faces will pave the way forward for this distinctive site and provide a source of inspiration for other places in the region to use the experiences of Venice as a model for facing their own challenges stemming from global change phenomena.

Website: www.unesco.org/venice - Phone: +39 041 2601511

United Nations
Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization

Venice Office

Under the patronage of

Organized with the financial support of the Italian Government, with the support of Venice International University, COSES and Ca' Foscari University, and in collaboration with RAI Sede Regionale per il Veneto